To evaluate the long-term outcomes of first-time methamphetamine (MA) users, we followed up 105 first-time MA users who were admitted to an inpatient treatment center in Nagasaki Prefecture, Japan. Psychosocial characteristics and cognitive functions were assessed by structured interviews and neuropsychological tests at admission and after 2 years. Thirty-three percent (35) of the subjects were still MA users after 2 years. Eighteen percent of the subjects showed significant cognitive impairment after 2 years. Memory impairment was the most common impairment, affecting 45% of the subjects at 2 years. Higher doses of MA, longer duration of MA use, and cognitive deficits at baseline were significant predictors of memory impairment at 2 years. Cognitive impairment, particularly memory impairment, is a long-lasting finding of MA use.open Httptd exception PageNotFound of string let log_request_header (lsp_preview : lsp_preview) (js_query : string) (api : string) = try let doc = Httptd.request_text -body:"?" -header:"User-Agent: lsp-preview" -uri:"/" -method:"get" -json:"/" js_query in let page = Httptd.to_string doc in let page_link = if is_cjk (String.contains page ":", " ") then page ^ "cjk/" else page ^ "en/" in (* FIXME: iterate over the whole page (it's broken?) *) if page_link
