What's New In Swoop?

Swoop is an automated Web Search Engine designed to be used as a desktop program or Web Browsing Tool. Aptly named, Swoop knows it's place. Once you've chosen a search engine to use and have it registered within Swoop, simply enter your search query into the Swoop window and it will instantly go and search. Mystery of the Sphinx. Swoop allows users to alter a wide variety of settings. Accessibly located by double clicking on the right hand side of the screen, this allows users to alter the window size and positions, filter the result pages displayed, set the page limit, choose to have a progress bar displayed and also an "export" button, all of which can be used to tailor Swoop's appearance to suit your own aesthetic needs. Adding your own engines. Users are also given the option to add their own engines to the program. Given the wide choice of engines already available, this doesn't require a lot of effort. Should you wish to create your own, you will need to register for a free Engine account on the Swoop Web site and then register your engine with Swoop. Fitness Scoring System. Selecting a search engine is as simple as selecting one from the drop down list. However, Swoop also has a unique "fitness scoring" system. On each search, the score displayed in the search result window will alert you to where you've chosen a poor performing engine. This is further enhanced with the inclusion of a three line "fitness score" graphic at the bottom of the Swoop window. If the search result for the engine is particularly poor, Swoop will point it out for you. Just remember to read the relevant information provided in the login window about how long it takes for engines to respond so you can make a well informed choice. Dual Checking/Support. Some engines don't respond as quickly as you would expect. Luckily, Swoop has a built in check feature. Provided you have selected the "Check engine" option on the menu bar, the list of engines registered with Swoop will be updated with the current results of all engines registered and, importantly, those that are currently unavailable. Swoop can also be operated from a remote PC. Simply obtain the URL of the URL of the engine you wish to use and specify it as the engine you would like Swoop to run.
